

Welcome to the Philips social media page(s)! Please feel free to interact with Philips and to discuss our products, campaigns and our company via these pages. We however would like to ask you to keep the following principles in mind when doing so:

- Be appropriate in your comments and posted materials. We will remove any comments and materials that are inappropriate or offensive.
- Please understand that comments and materials posted to the Philips pages do not represent the opinions of Philips.
- We ask you to not upload or otherwise provide comments or materials that you do not own or that may infringe upon the rights of others, such as intellectual property rights or data protection rights or other content that violate any applicable laws and regulations
- Unless indicated otherwise, all intellectual property rights to the Philips pages and the Philips content and materials are owned by Philips. If you post or upload comments or materials on the pages or send it to Philips by email or otherwise, you allow Philips to use, copy and/or commercially exploit content and materials free of charge. Do not upload confidential information.
- The above outlines the key principles which we deem important for interaction on our pages.
- Please read the complete Philips House Rules by clicking the link.
- Thank you!
